FOREWORD

Some works require prefatory comment to reveal their usefulness, while others need no adumbration. Of the latter genre is the volume now before you. Copies of it, hastening to their posts of duty, will multiply a thousand-fold the services which portions of the manuscript have already rendered.

But this book has more than reference value. It raises its voice in a different accent at a time when strident criticisms of material development are partly drowning out appraisals of our better ways. Its pages speak in terms of pure evidence. They offer the spectacle of four thousand seven hundred notable careers in art assembled for a hearing. That is no mean delegation.

When Henry Adams stood before the dynamo at the Great Exposition of Chicago, he saw it as the symbol of multiplicity in life—the new presiding genius. With what lack of understanding do the restive critics bring against this age—and against this country in particular—the charge of standing for a stultifying uniformity? No other time or place has thrust upon its creatures such necessity for choice between disparate patterns of existence. The field of art offers but a few of these, and yet nearly five thousand children of this choice have left their impress. Here they are and let the critics be confounded.

PREFACE

This book has been prepared to furnish a means of quickly locating biographical material on American artists. The names of about 4,700 artists have been arranged in alphabetical order, each followed by a brief statement of the place and date of birth and death, the mediums in which the individual worked, with abbreviations indicating one or more reference works in which further information may be found. Full titles, to correspond with these abbreviations, will be found on page ix.

In selecting the reference books to be indexed, an endeavor was made to include, so far as possible, only such standard works as have a wide distribution and which can be purchased at a reasonable price. The possibility of possessing or acquiring a substantial number of the indexed volumes has been kept constantly in mind, as this work is particularly adapted to the requirements of the smaller libraries and museums, where art reference work forms only a part of the daily routine. Probably every institution using the Index will find that it already has on its shelves a number of these volumes, or that a small expenditure will procure the works most frequently cited. The rarer and more expensive books will be found in the larger libraries, and it is suggested that users note the location of the nearest available copies. Certain books on American artists, not widely known, were indexed in order to bring within the scope of this book the names of certain obscure and early artists.

The selection of names for inclusion in the Index was made in accordance with the following plan. All artists born in North America, or working in any part of that territory, are included, providing their biographies are to be found in any of the reference works indexed, subject to the following provisions. Persons are included, providing they produced work of the following kinds: paintings in oils, water colors or pastels, miniatures, sculptures, crayons, etchings, engravings upon metal or wood, illustrations, or lithographs. Omitted from this Index are architects, interior decorators, designers, and craftsmen, unless they have worked in the mediums mentioned above. Younger artists, who are usually mentioned in current directories, such as The American Art Annual, and who have not as yet established themselves sufficiently to be included in other biographical works, are omitted from this Index, as the source of such information is so obvious that it need not be indicated here.

The manuscript for this book was begun six years ago when the writer was connected with the Division of Graphic Arts, of the United States National Museum. The original was used there, while a duplicate copy was loaned to the reference department of the Public Library of the District of Columbia. During a meeting of museum librarians, held in Washington, May 1929, at the time of the Special Libraries Association and American Library Association conventions, the scope of this work was outlined and it was suggested to the author that it was of sufficient importance to warrant its publication.

Finally I wish to record a word of appreciation for aid received in the arduous but important task of preparing this manuscript for the printer and of reading the proof with its many arbitrary signs and abbreviations. In this my thanks are due to my wife, and Miss Elizabeth Stone Wilson.

RALPH CLIFTON SMITH.

Sans Tache

Sans Tache

IN THE "elder days of art" each artist or craftsman enjoyed the privilege of independent creation. He carried through a process of manufacture from beginning to end. The scribe of the days before the printing press was such a craftsman. So was the printer in the days before the machine process. He stood or fell, as a craftsman, by the merit or demerit of his finished product.

Modern machine production has added much to the worker's productivity and to his material welfare; but it has deprived him of the old creative distinctiveness. His work is merged in the work of the team, and lost sight of as something representing him and his personality.

Many hands and minds contribute to the manufacture of a book, in this day of specialization. There are seven distinct major processes in the making of a book: The type must first be set; by the monotype method, there are two processes, the "keyboarding" of the MS and the casting of the type from the perforated paper rolls thus produced. Formulas and other intricate work must be hand-set; then the whole brought together ("composed") in its true order, made into pages and forms. The results must be checked by proof reading at each stage. Then comes the "make-ready" and press-run and finally the binding into volumes.

All of these processes, except that of binding into cloth or leather covers, are carried on under our roof.

The motto of the Waverly Press is Sans Tache. Our ideal is to manufacture books "without blemish"—worthy books, worthily printed, with worthy typography—books to which we shall be proud to attach our imprint, made by craftsmen who are willing to accept open responsibility for their work, and who are entitled to credit for creditable performance.

The printing craftsman of today is quite as much a craftsman as his predecessor. There is quite as much discrimination between poor work and good. We are of the opinion that the individuality of the worker should not be wholly lost. The members of our staff who have contributed their skill of hand and brain to this volume are:
